

abstract del workshop "Video-ethnographic research methodology"

The workshop's objective is to reflect on some methodologically relevant dimensions that characterize an urban research path built through the use of qualitative and video methodologies: definition of the research design/tools/objectives, role of the images as catalyst for social interaction, familiarization with the field, in-depth interviews, use and role of the video-camera, asymmetric reciprocity of collaborative processes, ethical issues, evaluation of the outcomes of the research. These dimensions will be explored through the analysis of a Canadian based case study.
