

Systemic approach to waterscape and open spaces design in contemporary city

Lucia Nucci, Dipartimento di Architettura Roma Tre

The module explores a recurring topic in major urban regeneration projects and introduces the focus on water in urbanism.

Open space takes on different meanings and purposes: health, ecological-environmental, social and recreational, cultural, aesthetic.

Some open research questions will be presented in the module. It is, in fact, necessary to find new rules for the design of changing cities that require open spaces with more performance and more relationships.